Politician Admits Passing Bremer Ransom Cash

ACTUAL KIDNAPING CHARGED TO PALS OF JOHN DILLINGER

Interlocking Band of Criminals Dealt Hard
Blow as 'Boss' McLaughlin
Confesses Handling
$53,000 of Ransom.

TAX LIEN ENTERED AGAINST SWINDLER

Barker and Karpis, Who Escaped Wisconsin Trap
With Dillinger, Sought
as Actual Kidnapers.

CHICAGO, April 30.—(AP)—Four men had been snared tonight in government traps set along the back trail
of Edward Bremer's $200,000 ransom
and from its prisoners, the department of justice learned of an interlocking band of criminals embracing the Dillinger gang, Bremer's kidnapers, a notorious swindler and a mail robber's fence.

John J. (Boss) McLaughlin, former state legislator, confessed today he was given $53,000 of the St. Paul banker's ransom to circulate, Melvin H. Purvis of the bureau of investigation announced.

From whom he got the money was
a secret of the government or Mc-Laughlin. Held with the old-time politician on charges of conspiracy to possess the ransom were his 17-year-old son, Jack; Philip Delaney, 34, snubbed at McLaughlin's home, and William E. Vidler, veteran arrest Thursday launched the roundup of the gang.

Actual Kidnapers.
Hunted as the actual kidnapers
were two former convicts from Oklahoma, Arthur Barker and Alvin Karpis,
the criminals who were part of the Dillinger school of seven big ones that got away from the federal net at Little Bohemia resort in Wisconsin a week ago.

Coincidental with the issuance of warrants against Delaney and young McLaughlin today the collector of internal revenue filed an income tax lien
for $80,000 against William Elmer Mead, convict and swindler whose tracks were sighted along one of the side trails of the Bremer case.

The revenue department and Purvis
refused to furnish any enlightening
details of the Mead offshoot of the sensational kidnaping, but he was understood to have been the man who "discovered" Bremer as a potential victim.

Accused as Fence.
Mead, like McLaughlin, was already
under bond on another federal charge.
McLaughlin is accused of being the high fence in handling the $250,000
loot of a Chicago mail robbery in December, 1932. Mead forfeited $10-000 bond here by ignoring his scheduled trial in Jacksonville, Fla., on a mail fraud charge.

And Mead, so the story runs—un-elaborated by the reticent federal agents hunting him—learned about Bremer's riches while engaged in putting over an alleged syndicate of Martin Wunderlich, contractor of St. Paul and Jefferson City, Mo., film, with at the latter place, made outright denial today that he had been swindled out of $50,000 as reported here. At St. Paul, the dispatch put the swindle

KIDNAPED CHILD IS STILL MISSING

All Law Agencies Quit
Search To Permit
Family To Negotiate.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 30.—(AP)— Formal announcement was made tonight of withdrawal from the June Robles kidnaping case of all federal,
state, county and city investigating authorities, at the request of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles, parents of the child held for $15,000 ransom.

At Santa Anna, Sonora, Mexico,
Bernabe Robles, grandfather, had not found June, and told Jose Figueroa, owner of the hotel here, he had not seen the kidnappers.

While searching the country for clues
of the whereabouts of his granddaughter's abductors, Robles said he had gone to Pitiquito, in the Altar district, and placed his troubles before Manuel Gamboa, who has a reputation as a seer among the residents of this below-the-border country.

What Gamboa had advised him of, it seemed, was that the kidnappers had to do, or what prediction the reputed seer made regarding the outcome of his efforts to release June, the aged man did not divulge. Figueroa said,
the abductors had demanded the calling off of all man-hunting activities pending negotiations. Mauler said the message came from his sister, Mrs.
Katherine Jones, who came to Tucson
to be with June's mother, Mrs. Helen Robles.

Mauler further said the telegram
expressed the belief of the Robles family that vengeance on the part of someone who had had dealings with the old cattleman might have figured
in the abduction.

An unexplained development was the announcement of the California
state bureau of criminal identification in Sacramento that Tucson authorities had asked that the whereabouts of Richard Robles, whom California authorities identified as an uncle of the girl, be determined and that the bureau had found such a person in the Stockton State hospital as a voluntary patient.

FUND OF 2 BILLION MADE AVAILABLE FOR STABILIZATION

Treasury Refuses Details
But New Bookkeeping
Set-Up Shows Cash
Ready for Transactions.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—
First evidence of administration under its vast money managing powers
was contained today in a routine
treasury statement which officials refused fully to explain.

"The figures must speak for themselves," was the only reply to questions about a new bookkeeping set-up
under which the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund ready for spending the dollar abroad.

What the figures showed was a $2-000,000,000 expenditure to the account
of "exchange stabilization fund."
Of this $2,000,000,000 apparently was deposited with the federal reserve system for active use and $1,800,000,000
held in reserve in the treasury.

Dollar Weakness.
In some unofficial quarters the move was believed prompted by recent weakness of the dollar abroad
and in anticipation of possible further declines from the gold par with French francs.

Secretary Morgenthau said about a week ago that the treasury would sell
gold for export if the dollar reached the export point which would make shipments profitable to the des-tines.

Whether today's step included
actual dealing in foreign exchange
could not be discovered from the treasury's daily statement and Morgenthau
only reiterated his past refusal ever
to discuss the stabilization fund.

But this was a chief purpose of creating the fund in the gold reserve
act which said the secretary of the treasury, with the president's approval, "for the purpose of stabilizing
the exchange value of the dollar,"
could "deal in gold and foreign exchange and such other instruments of credit and securities as may be determined necessary to carry out the purpose of this section."

May Invest Fund.
In addition, the treasury also may invest the fund in government securities but is not believed to have done
so to date.

Along the treasury has had any stabilization money on deposit with
the reserve banks was not indicated,
but on April 27 the "exchange stabilization fund" was entered on the books, gold certificate holdings of the reserve board jumped $101,000,000.
Some experts believed another $80-
000,000 had been deposited previously with the New York Federal Reserve bank, the treasury's fiscal agent.

With only occasional exceptions the treasury, for the purpose of stabilizing
gold and securities has not done
more gold with the reserve system
in the form of certificates than it has received in metal.

Listing the entire $2,000,000,000
fund as part of the day's expenditures
on April 27 was interpreted as a purely bookkeeping transaction. Previously, the $2,510,000,000 profit on gold dollar devaluation was converted into
the general cash balance along with tax and other receipts. Taking the $2,000,000,000 out of this balance as an expenditure was considered necessary so receipt and expenditure columns would balance on treasury
ledgers.

In calling the meeting here, Mr.
Taylor said that it was brought out
at a hearing before the commission,
which preceded the rate cut order,
trucking companies produced evidence which showed that a reduction of 27
per cent which was ordered was con-
fiscatory and would put a number of
the lines out of business.

"We cannot operate under the trucking code if we are forced to charge
the rates fixed by the commission,"
Mr. Taylor said. He added that he
expected about 400 members at Wednesday's meeting.

Charles Wallace, of Aaron Transit
Company, of Atlanta, said he felt certain that the association would interpose a petition for an injunction against the trucking code if it was enforced.

Dr. Seymour, who had been expected to attend the meeting, was not present. He had been expected to attend the meeting, but was not present.

World Centers on Alert For May Day Disorders

Law Enforcement Bodies Prepare to Forestall
Any Subversive Action As Reds
Mobilize for Celebrations.

By the Associated Press.
Fears of riots, disorders and even revolution motivated extensive precautions of law enforcement bodies Monday night as world communism prepared to observe May Day with strikes
and demonstrations.

Paris, seething with discontent and
facing a communist-inspired general
strike today, became an armed camp
as the government determined to quell
any subversive action.

Blood was spilled in France last night, hours before the "zero hour"
of the May Day strike. More than a dozen persons, including a priest and three policemen were wounded in clashes at Mantes, near Paris.

Germany looked forward to a "day
of labor" with parades and speeches
in honor of the laboring man, but in many United States cities and in Cuba,
Austria, Spain, Belgium, Palestine and
other countries the danger of violence
was recognized and provided for by
soldiers and police.

In New York, 1,700 special police will be on duty to guard against violence
in the public square, but in many
United States cities and in Cuba,
Austria, Spain, Belgium, Palestine and
other countries the danger of violence
was recognized and provided for by
soldiers and police.

The American Vigilantes of Washington state announced circulars were distributed calling for strikes and asking high school students to "cut school May Day and attend an anti-war parade to demonstrate against the use of educational funds for war preparations."

The Young Communist League of Seattle advertised a parade and demonstration for Tuesday.
The international labor defense organization, the International Labor Defense, also announced a parade and demonstration for Tuesday.

TRUCK COMPANIES PLAN COURT FIGHT LEA, SON REVIEW

Carriers' Association Calls Meeting; Many Lines Accept Rate Cut.

Despite the fact that a number of the leading motor freight companies of the state have accepted the rate reduction ordered into effect today by the public service commission, the Carriers' Association will meet here
Wednesday to plan court action to prevent the commission from maintaining the rate.

The meeting here was called Monday by Jack P. Taylor, of Augusta, president of the association, who said
he could not understand the announcement of the rate cut by the commission.

Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, of the public service commission, said that the commission had accepted the rate
cut on the basis of a reduction of 27
per cent of the freight moved by truck
in Georgia.

"I understand some of the companies are going to try to get an injunction against the order," Chairman Wilhoit said. "Of course, I'm sorry,
but we have had to light so many cigarettes that we are out of matches
and don't have any difference."

Hugh Howell, Atlanta attorney, announced Sunday that the companies
he represented, several of the largest in the state, were accepting the cut.
Mr. Howell said Monday that he could not speak for any which he did not represent.

In calling the meeting here, Mr.
Taylor said that it was brought out
at a hearing before the commission,
which preceded the rate cut order,
trucking companies produced evidence which showed that a reduction of 27
per cent which was ordered was con-
fiscatory and would put a number of
the lines out of business.

"We cannot operate under the truck-
ing code if we are forced to charge
the rates fixed by the commission,"
Mr. Taylor said. He added that he
expected about 400 members at Wednesday's meeting.

CIT IN COUNCIL TO 18 MEMBERS VOTED BY BOARD

Charter Revision Body
Also Backs Reduction of Georgia Interest Rate
From 8 to 6 Per Cent.

Reduction of Atlanta's 30-member council to 18 members and reduction of the legal rate of interest in Georgia from eight per cent to six per cent were voted Monday night by the special charter revision committee of council as the body took steps to re-
adjust the taxing system, divorce
schools from council and revise pension laws of the municipality.

Under the plan as approved by the committee, which will be subject to another city-wide referendum if passed by the legislature, one member of council would be selected from each of the 13 wards as now constituted
and the city divided into four quadrants as it is now divided for numbering purposes, with one alderman to come from each of the quadrants.

Another alderman would be selected from the entire city and he would be major pro tem, and the 18th member of general council.

If it becomes effective, the positions of all council members will expire December 31, 1935. The new council will be organized immediately
in the primary and general elections in the fall of 1935 to succeed
those who would be relieved.

High Court Denies Lea, Son Review

Pair Face Extradition To North Carolina To Serve Prison Term.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—
Colonel Luke Lea, former senator
from Tennessee, and his son, Luke Lea Jr., today were denied a review
by the supreme court of the action
of Tennessee courts ordering their extradition to North Carolina to serve prison terms imposed on them in that state.

Lea, formerly publisher of the Nashville Tennessean and for many years a dominant power in the state politics, was convicted in North Carolina in August, 1931, along with his son on charges growing out of the operation of the Central Bank & Trust Company of Asheville, N. C., a $17-000,000 concern.

Lea was sentenced to imprisonment
for six years, and his son was sentenced to imprisonment for two years,
both sentences to be served in the state penitentiary at Raleigh.

They appealed their conviction to the United States supreme court, but were denied a review.

Released on bond, they sought to prevent their removal from Tennessee.

In opposing extradition they asserted their conviction was illegal because based on acts which, they asserted, were not in violation of the law of North Carolina when they were not in that state.

The Tennessee courts refused to release them from confinement, and the supreme court declaring it could not pass on the validity of the conviction
in North Carolina.

COURT DENIES REVIEW IN BOMBING CONVICTION

R. A. Bridges, convicted of second degree murder in connection with the bombing of the Pure Milk plant in Birmingham, Ala., in July, 1933, and sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment, Monday was denied a review by the supreme court.

Final Battle.

GEN. HUGH L. SCOTT.

GEN. HUGH SCOTT DIES AT AGE OF 80

Famous Indian Fighter
and Highway Builder
Passes at Capital.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—
Major General Hugh L. Scott, retired, noted Indian fighter and former chief of staff of the army, died tonight in Walter Reed hospital after an illness of two months. He was 80 years old.
Graduated from West Point in 1876,
Scott as a second lieutenant saw active service immediately in the Sioux expedition, the beginning of a stirring career as an army officer
which led him to the post of chief of staff at the beginning of the World War. He held the latter post from November, 1914, to September, 1917,
and laid the basis for American participation in the conflict with Germany.

Two weeks ago Newton D. Baker,
secretary of war in the Wilson administration and a close personal friend, visited Scott at the hospital
and talked over the thrilling events
of war days.

General Scott is survived by his widow and four children. Mrs. Scott and a daughter were at the bedside
when death came. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Retired from active duty in the army in 1919, rounding out four colorful decades of distinguished service,
he lived in retirement at a commandant at West Point and culminating
in his appointment as chief of staff.

But he wasn't ready to settle down.
He offered his services to the state of New Jersey, his boyhood home, and was accepted.

Philippines Accept Full Independence

MANILA, P. I., May 1.—(Tuesday)
(AP)—Exactly 36 years after the Battle of Manila Bay, the Philippine legislature today voted acceptance of the Tydings-McDuffie measure, thereby taking the first step on the road to complete independence of the Philippines.

Meeting in special session, the legislature joyously approved a resolution
accepting self-government and prepared to take action to bring about separate government in 1945.

The Tydings-McDuffie measure,
signed March 31 by President Roosevelt, provides for independence after a decade under the administration of a transition commonwealth government with a Filipino chief executive.
The legislature's action was taken
at a 30-minute joint session.

Methodists Chirp FOR PROHIBITION

JACKSON, Miss., April 30.—(AP)—
The board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in their quadrennial report to the general conference of the church here, demanded that the United States return to nation-wide prohibition, and that the question be made an issue in the election of every senator and representative "until national prohibition is again adopted."

This board is headed by Bishop
James Cannon Jr., the militant dry leader of the church at a time when a movement was being agitated to consolidate three general boards with other church boards for the sake of economy.

Bishop Cannon, who was detained in Washington until after his exor-cism in court on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal corruption laws, made his first appearance today at the conference stage
beside his fellow bishops of the church.

INCIDENT CLOSED TO GREAT BRITAIN

American Rebuke Comes
as London Attempts to Smooth Over Situation
Created by Japan.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(UP)—
The United States has bluntly rejected Japan's claims to exercise a "Monroe Doctrine" for Asia, Secretary of State Cordell Hull officially revealed tonight.

In an official statement issued at the state department, Hull revealed
he had instructed the American ambassador to Japan, Joseph C. Grew,
to inform the Japanese foreign office
that the United States stands squarely upon her treaty rights in China,
and expects other nations to do the same.

This sharp reminder to Japan of her obligations under the nine-power
treaty, which guarantees the territorial and political integrity of China,
was delivered to the Japanese foreign office by Grew at 6 p. m. Sunday,
Tokyo time, it was revealed.

Before Simon Speer.
This was several hours before Sir
John Simon, British foreign secretary, informed the house of commons that the British government considered as virtually a closed incident the situation provoked by Japan's claims to a dominant position in China.

Upon the assurance of the Japanese government that it intended to respect the "open door" policy in China and the terms of the nine-power
treaty, Sir John said, the British government found little cause for alarm
in the far eastern situation office in Tokyo.

Hull's statement revealed that the United States had acted without waiting for the British government, and had taken a considerably different stand.

Won't Consult Japan.
He said, in effect, that the United States did not propose to consult with Japan before extending financial or other assistance to the Chinese government.

Police Squad Appears, Nudist Film Removed

Scheduled showing of "Elysian" motion picture made in a California
night club, at Lakewood park, was called off by the American Legion and L. W. Merritt, representative of the producers, when a squad of policemen, acting under orders of Chief T.
O. Sturdivant, appeared at the club prepared to arrest all employed in connection with the proposed exhibition.

Action of the chief was prompted
by a complaint from the Atlanta
Board of Review, organization created by city ordinance to pass on moving pictures shown in the city or on city property. Merritt said that rather than subject innocent employees working in the showing to arrest, he halted proceedings.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, secretary of the board of review, said "it is simply unthinkable that the American Legion would attempt to show a film
of this kind." Merritt said that Post
No. 1 of the Legion, was sponsoring the presentation. He added that more than 800 people were waiting in line
to obtain tickets to the show when
the policemen appeared.

Merritt said efforts would be made
to obtain a location outside the city
for the showing of the film, which he billed as an uncensored picture made in "Elysian Fields," the famous California nudist colony.

VIENNA, April 30.—(UP)—Parliamentary rule in post-war republic an Austria came to an end today with the promulgation of a new constitution transforming the nation into a fascist state.
Little semblance of democracy remained under the new deal inaugurated
by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss
and his powerful fascist-inclined associates.
The national rat, or parliament, in a brief, one-hour session made history
when it approved in one vote the decrees submitted by the Dollfuss ministry and the new constitution.
The constitution provides for a so-
called "autocratic state, or a nation whose national council, replacing parliament, will be appointed by the president. Representative parliamentary government, which has been in effect since the founding of the state
in 1918, is abolished.
The reorganization of Austria
along these lines is similar to the alteration of Italy's parliament
by Premier Benito Mussolini, sponsor of fascism and the guild-run state.
The new regime was received enthusiastically by the Austrians. It was opposed by probably three-fourths of the population, including:
1. The outlawed nazis who have not been permitted to show their strength in elections since their party
became a popular movement.
2. The socialists, who have been banned and whose leaders are in jail.
3. The semi-nazi so-called pan-
German party and the landbund party, sympathetic toward the nazis. Both these latter are represented in parliament, and opposed adoption of the new constitution.
NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Birth-
of "test tube" twins disclosed today
has been asserted successful in 12 cases.
Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Lauricella,
who had been married eight years,
were so pleased when their two babies
were born that they revealed the secret.
Dr. Frances Seymour and Dr. Alfred Koerner, both graduates of the Medical College of Virginia and now practicing in New York, then said
they had conducted a series of successful experiments for the past two years, but expressed surprise at public interest in the results.
Dr. Iago Galdeston, secretary of the medical information bureau of the New York Academy of Medicine, said
he too was surprised that a "test tube
baby" should excite excitement.

POOLS IN CITY PARKS TO BE OPENED JUNE 2

Jaycees Allowed to Hold Annual Tournament Over Bobby Jones Course.

The parks committee Monday voted to open the swimming pools on June 2 with the hours on weeks days set for opening at 7:30 o'clock in the morning and close at 9:30 o'clock at night. Sundays they will open at 6 a. m. and close at 9 a. m., and open again at 1:30 p. m. and close at 9:30 p. m.

Pools are located at Piedmont, Grant, Maddox, Moxley and Oakland City parks for white persons and Washington park for negroes.

The concession bid at Moxley was awarded to I. H. Belford at $450, and to T. C. Shreve at Maddox for $151.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was allowed the privilege of using the Bobby Jones golf course for its annual golf tournament. The date will be set later, George B. Yancey, secretary, said.

A druggists' garden will be established at Grant park, it was decided. Sinclair Jacobs, of Jacobs' pharmacy, filed the petition. Druggists will furnish the seeds and many medicinal plants, which will be of great educational value, will be planted, according to plans.

Permission to hold the annual horse show May 24-26 at Piedmont park was granted the Atlanta Horse Show Association.

The committee voted to lay the latest request of Trammell Scott that permits be issued for the Sunday games on the table until a full membership of the committee was present. Alderman J. C. Aldredge was absent at Monday's session of the committee.

TWO FINED FOR MELEE AT HOSPITAL AND JAIL

Two men who gave the names of A. L. Canton, 26, of 225 Church street, and J. T. Jones, 29, of 460 Pryor street, felt the heavy hand of the law in two distinct ways Monday.

Early in the morning it took nine policemen to arrest them on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct when they were said to have been creating a disturbance at Peachtree and Spring street and to lodge them in a cell at the police station. First they had to be taken to Grady hospital, where they succeeded in breaking several windows and generally wrecking the emergency clinic, following which they were taken to the jail.

Monday afternoon Recorder A. W. Callaway fined Jones $100 for driving an automobile while drunk and assessed Canton $50 for his part in the disturbance. Both men were given the alternative of paying the fines or staying 30 days in jail.

ROYAL TYPEWRITERS ESTABLISH RECORD

Sales of the new Royal typewriters for the month of March were in the greatest volume ever attained in the history of the company, according to W. L. Brady, local manager for the Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., which maintains a branch office at 63 Broad street.

"Not only were sales of Royal typewriters through our branches and dealers in the United States at the highest levels ever reached," stated Mr. Brady, "but also supplies, accessories and service business reached large volume, and export business recorded a large increase. The extremely high level of our March business is reflected by the fact that almost 75 per cent of our 40 branches in principal cities throughout the country made their sales quota, with some running above their quotas as high as several hundred per cent."

Mr. Brady also stated that final reports on the first three months of 1934 would show it to be one of the best three-month periods the company has ever had.

J. ADDISON STECK DIES AT WALHALLA, S. C.

J. Addison Steck, prominent citizen of Oconee county, South Carolina, and editor of the Keweenaw Courier, of Walhalla, died at the Anderson county hospital Monday morning after an illness of two weeks. Death followed a major operation.

Funeral services for Mr. Steck, who for a number of years served as mayor of Walhalla, will be conducted at Walhalla this afternoon and burial will be in the Walhalla cemetery. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Ethel de Ponte, of New Orleans, La., and a large contingent of relatives in South Carolina. Mr. Steck and his wife had a large number of friends in Atlanta, where they visited frequently.

STEEL FIRM'S QUARREL WITH UNION TO BE AIDED

Charges that the Thomas blast furnace of Birmingham, a division of the Republic Steel Corporation, had refused to recognize a union committee will be heard by the regional labor board in Atlanta Friday. Frank Coffee, board secretary, said Monday.

The company also is charged with trying to intimidate employees in an election. Coffee said.

After a hearing here last January the board directed that an election be held to decide whether workers should join a company union or one affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The election resulted in 282 votes for the federation union and only eight for the company group. Coffee said. About 450 men are affected.

HOWELL ESTATE ASKS U. S. TO RETURN $18,323

Return of $18,323 to the estate of the late G. Arthur Howell was asked the federal government Monday, in a petition filed in Washington by attorneys for the executors of the estate.

The petition, asking a redetermination of the estate tax as fixed by the revenue department, sets forth that the government illegally included in the taxable estate proceeds of certain life insurance policies.

Petitioners contend that Mrs. Howell paid all her husband's life insurance premiums, and that therefore the money provided by the policies should be free from federal taxation.

STATE ELEEMOSYNARY LOAN IS TURNED DOWN

Chairman E. E. Lindsey, of the state board of control, said Monday that he had been informed by Congressman Carl Vinson that the public works administration had turned down the state's application for a loan and grant of $5,500,000 for eleemosynary institutions.

Representative Vinson wrote Mr. Lindsey saying that he would ask the president to help on the matter, but the board chairman said he had practically abandoned hope for the loan. Georgia is prohibited from making a loan because of constitutional provision.

BAPTISTS PROPOSE
ANDREWS BUILDING

A movement was launched at the Atlanta Baptist ministers' conference Monday morning to erect a building at the Georgia Baptist Orphan's Home at Hapeville as a memorial to George W. Andrews, leader of the Sunday school forces of Georgia Baptists for the past 30 years, who died suddenly Saturday.

The suggestion was made by Dr. B. J. W. Graham, of Atlanta, and a committee composed of Dr. Z. E. Barron, Dr. W. Lee Cutts and Dr. W. A. Duncan was appointed to give careful consideration to the matter, advising with officials of the home and Baptist leaders throughout the state, with a view of making a definite recommendation to the conference next Monday morning.

The proposal calls for a building specially adapted to the younger children of the home, and it was pointed out that Mr. Andrews gave his life to the teaching of children and would thus be happily memorialized in such a building.

New Tunnel Started by Byrd
As Drifts Pile Over Shack

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, April 27.—(Delayed)—(Via Mackay Radio)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd completed today his first month of isolation at the Boiling advance weather base, 123 miles by trail from Little America.

Wrapped in darkness since more than a week ago when the long polar night set in, Byrd disclosed today that drifts piling over his sunken shack had completely submerged it in snow and that he has been compelled to start a third tunnel, 25 feet long to provide means of escape in case he is trapped.

Physically, Admiral Byrd's isolation is complete, but by radio he retains contact with Little America. The only access to the surface from the little shack where he is conducting meteorological observations up to now has been a double trap door and two tunnels, both ending in a cul-de-sac.

These tunnels, starting in front of the vestibule, hold his stores of food and fuel. They run east and west. The new tunnel runs southward from one of these, and although Admiral Byrd did not make it clear, it was assumed that it slopes to the surface.

Admiral Byrd said it had been a difficult job to drive the new tunnel. He had to dig the snow out, carry it and hoist it through the trap door to the surface, then carry it away from the shack so that the pile would not collect additional drift.

He said that by working on it a bit every day he has driven 15 feet.

He said his instruments were functioning perfectly in spite of the intense cold, and that he had completed a month's observations.

ARKANSAS REFUNDING IS UPHOLD BY COURT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 30.—(AP)—The new $155,000,000 Arkansas highway debt refunding act of a recent special legislative session was upheld by the state supreme court today.

Five separate cases raising various questions on the refunding act were decided by the court. Justices McHaney wrote the opinion, with Justices Smith and Butler dissenting from a part of it which held that the tax on gasoline for industrial and agricultural purposes is not a property tax.

The decision is expected by state officials to result in immediate surrender of millions of dollars worth of outstanding bonds for refunding. The terms of the refunding act were accepted in advance of enactment by various classes of creditors.

ARKANSAS HIGH COURT STUDIES SHANK'S PLEA

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 30.—(AP)—The appeal of Mark H. Shank, Akron, Ohio, attorney, from a death sentence conviction for one of four poison murders with which he was charged, was taken under consideration by the state supreme court today. The supreme court, upholding the lower court, said the motion for a decision should be made next Monday.

NEW MOVE LAUNCHED FOR CAPONE RELEASE

Statute of Limitations Is Cited as Basis for Latest Action.

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—(AP)—Pinning their pleas on a technicality revolving again around the three-year statute of limitations, attorneys for Al Capone appeared today before the United States fifth circuit court of appeals in a renewed effort to obtain his release from a 11-year sentence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for income tax evasion.

They argued that the one-time Chicago gangster's defense counsel followed the proper procedure in his trial in 1931 and filed a plea in bar which attacked the government's indictment on the grounds that it was returned after the three-year statute of limitations had expired.

The trial judge, they contended, entertained the plea but erred when he held the statute did not apply in Capone's case.

Capone's first appeal for freedom was based—and lost—on the contention that the lower court erred in refusing to direct a verdict of acquittal after the defense had moved for one. The motion similarly challenged the indictment.

The supreme court, upholding the lower court, said the motion for a decision should be made next Monday.

H. M. HECKMAN NAMED TO STATE NRA COUNCIL

The first chairman of a consumer's advisory council, the new NRA setup which is designed to represent the rights of the consumer, was made Monday. He is H. M. Heckman, of the University of Georgia, and he will head the Clarke county council. Other chairmen and council members are expected to be named shortly. The chairmen and members will serve without pay and will bring to the attention of NRA authorities complaints of consumers. W. L. Mitchell, executive assistant in charge of NRA in Georgia, said other council members in Clarke county would be announced soon.

MRS. F. W. ALLCORN SR.
DIES IN JERSEY CITY

Mrs. Frank W. Allcorn Sr., mother of Frank W. Allcorn, president of the Atlanta Joint Stock Land bank, died Monday at the Allcorn family home in Jersey City, N. J.

Mrs. Allcorn visited in Atlanta frequently and was well known here. Funeral services and burial will be in Jersey City.

Mrs. Allcorn is survived by her husband, her son and two grandchildren.

reected verdict should have been filed before testimony was completed. The appeal today argued by William Leahy, of Washington, was from a refusal by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood in the northern district of Georgia to grant a writ of habeas corpus to effect Capone's release. William Hughes, of Washington, and Edwin Grace, of New Orleans, appeared with Leahy.

WEIRTON 'DOMINATION' OF EMPLOYEES SCORED

U. S. Seeks to Prevent Interference in Vote on Bargaining Group.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 30.—(AP)—The federal government went to bat in United States district court today on its petition to prevent Weirton Steel Company interference in the holding of its employees for collective bargaining representatives.

Charging that the present organization of Weirton employees is dominated by the company, James Lawrence Fly, representing the attorney-general's office, termed the union "a sham and a shame."

Counsel for the Weirton company asserted the concern had acted in accordance with the NRA in the election last December and stated the national labor board could have supervised the election but did not do so. "Peaceful relations" between the company and its employees would be disturbed by authorization of another election, it was contended.

The government's petition for an injunction is based on its contention that the Weirton company violated the National Labor Relations act which guarantees to workers the right to select representatives, without interference, for collective bargaining. The alleged violations occurred at the election last December.

EXTENSION IS GRANTED FOR COUNTY RETURNS

Fulton County Tax Receiver Guy Moore Monday granted delinquent county property owners a 10-day extension in filing returns, and R. A. McMurry, city tax collector, invited Atlanta taxpayers to pay the first installment of 1934 taxes, due between May 1 and 15 and save 1 1/2 per cent, allowed as a discount.

Moore said approximately 12,000 persons are late in filing 1934 returns and the extension was allowed in order that they might do so without penalty. Only about 9,000 of the 50,000 Atlanta tax bills were in the mails Monday because of a delay in receipt of the tax forms.

Attaches of the assessors' office, however, are working overtime in the effort to get them all out as soon as possible. Citizens who wish to pay up immediately can obtain bills by calling at the city hall, officials pointed out.

STONE BAKERY WINS
VITAMIN D AWARD

A license for improving the nutritional value of bread by the use of vitamin D extract developed at Columbia University in New York city has been awarded the Stone Baking Company, according to Joseph Hexter, president of the company.

The addition of vitamin D to O Boy bread, he said, is regarded by medical officials as a marked advance in the field of nutrition, as this vitamin, which is needed for building bones and preserving teeth, is practically missing in the average diet. The license to use the new vitamin D product in bread was awarded by the National Oil Products Company, of Harrison, N. J., which manufactures the vitamin D extract under a patent held by Columbia University. O Boy Vitamin D Bread will be placed on the local market within a few days, said Mr. Hexter.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today established a committee to provide a national land program.

The committee is to be composed of one representative of the interior and agriculture departments and a third from the federal emergency relief administration. They shall serve without compensation.

The president outlined the purpose in his order as follows:

"It is deemed desirable and in the public interest that a comprehensive survey and study of our national land problems be made for the purpose of (1) improving practices in land utilization, (2) better balancing our agricultural production, (3) aiding in the solution of human problems in land use, and (4) developing a national land program."

Personality Analyst Reveals Secrets Seen in Handwriting

Ruth Fowler Brown

"Are your discoveries often brilliant intuitions?" a young reporter asked Thomas A. Edison. "Do they come to you while you are lying awake at night?"

"I never did anything worth doing by accident," replied Edison, "nor did any of my inventions come indirectly through accident, except the phonograph. No. When I have fully decided that a result is worth getting, I go ahead on it and make trial after trial until it comes."

Persistence—the courage to get up and try again when failure causes a setback—determination—the will and resolution to overcome all obstacles. Edison had them. All great men and women have them. How about you?

Show me a successful person who has not had great determination and persistence. Newton discovered the law of gravitation before he was 21 but, due to a slight error in measurement, he was unable to demonstrate correctly his theory. But he persisted. Twenty years later he corrected the error and proved his theory. Harvey labored eight long years before publishing his discovery on the circulation of the blood. He was laughed at, abused and ridiculed. But persistently he waited. And 25 years later his great discovery was recognized by the medical profession.

Einstein worked at least 15 years on his theory of relativity. One of the paintings that brought fame to Titian was on his easel eight years. For that matter, how do our popular authors reach success? By writing, for years and years without any pay at all, by writing millions of words, by hanging on by burning rejection slips for heat in the winter, writing menus on their typewriters for food at a local restaurant—by sheer determination and persistence.

Mental Hygiene Is Discussed; Child Health Day Emphasized

Child Health Day is being celebrated today throughout the nation. In addition, to articles related to this vital subject, talks will be made in many cities by experts in the health needs of children. Of particular interest to parents is the talk made by Dean Goodrich White, of Emory University, a speech on the welfare association at their April meeting.

Appropriately enough Dean White chose his subject—"Mental Hygiene"—with the idea of emphasizing Child Health Day.

"I looked 'hygiene' up in the dictionary before I came," Dean White began, "and I found that definition to be the 'preservation and improvement of health.' And so I shall try to treat mental hygiene as I would physical hygiene. Too often we think of mental hygiene as an unhealthy, abnormal condition, but it should be the same healthy normal condition of the mind governed by various influences which I shall try to put before you. So we shall talk of developing the personality of the child, not the particular differences. We shall speak of normal, natural, happy living, laying foundations for... personality."

"Now, the first requisite of the course is physical health, for without physical health there can be but poor development of personality in the child. It means a stable will, the ability to make social adjustments, to be happy, usefully efficient."

"Then I would name play. Play gives the child control of his body, of himself, of his relationships. It enables him to exercise emotional adjustments. I mean absorbing, wholehearted play with a group, not necessarily supervised, not policed. These must be active sports, not spectator sports. We adults as well as some children are all too guilty of spectator sports. We don't have to reach perfection to play, we must forget our dignity and romp. The group play with the give and take is important, free play and not forced."

"And third I would name work, useful regular interesting work, not too taxing, but co-operative so that he will feel that what he is doing is important to the welfare of the family and not just a cooked-up chore. He ought to have some responsibility for the family and community, it will fit him into the home by his happy contribution."

"Discipline is the fourth requisite. Not an arbitrary discipline nor a regimen between the old-time discipline and the new-time freedom. Discipline must be taught and practiced as an educative means... to achieve the power of self-control."

"As opposed to discipline we have freedom which truly is a part of discipline and should be coupled with it, for it is part of the disciplinary

AID IN ROUTE 61 PAVING PLEDGED BY TALMADGE

North Georgia Citizens Seek Work From Cartersville to Tennessee Line.

Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday promised a large delegation of Bartow, Gordon and Murray county citizens that he would aid them in getting Route 61 from Cartersville north through Chatsworth paved to the Tennessee line.

The delegation, forming a large motorcade, came to the capitol early Monday and was met by the governor and the state highway board in the hall of the house of representatives.

"I know well the road you want," the governor said in addressing the citizens from the home region of his opponent in the forthcoming primary, Judge Claude C. Pittman, of Cartersville. "It is a bad road and ought to be paved. You take the matter up with the highway department and if you do not get fair treatment let me know and I'll help you."

The delegation, numbering about 350, was headed by Milton L. Fleetwood, publisher of the Cartersville News-Tribune and president of the Georgia Press Association.

"This delegation is from the hills of north Georgia and is composed of your friends from up there," Mr. Fleetwood told the governor.

The new road would open up a large trading territory for Atlanta and cut off 65 miles of the distance to Knoxville.

NEW LECTURE SERIES ANNOUNCED BY RICH

Rich's bookshop announces today a new series of lectures on contemporary literature to be given by Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris each Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. These "half hours with modern writers" have been tremendously popular, so many requests have come in to continue the series through May that the bookshop has arranged with Mrs. Morris to give the following talks:

May 1—"Catherine the Great, Based on 'The Empress' by the Grand Duke Alexander and 'Catherine the Great' by Catherine Anthony."

May 8—"Gertrude Stein and Other Experimentalists."

May 15—"The Dog Has His Day in Literature," based on books by Max de la Roche, Virginia Woolf, Albert Payson Terhune, G. B. Stern and Kerouac.

May 22—"Fannie Hurst, including such popular works as 'Back Street' and the recently published 'Anitra's Dance'."

May 29—"T. S. Stribling, Southern Pulitzer Prize Winner." This talk will take up the great trilogy, "The Grand Duke Alexander," "Catherine the Great," and "The Dog Has His Day in Literature," the latter to be published during the coming month. These talks are open to the public without charge. They begin promptly at 10 o'clock.

SUSPENSION REVOKED, ELDER IS SENT TO GANG

Bennie Elder, who was arrested last week in a liquor raid on a lunch room at 704 Ponce de Leon avenue, was ordered sent to the chain gang Monday by Judge Jesse M. Wood in city criminal court, to serve a 12-month sentence. The court's order was made in revocation of a 12-month suspended sentence imposed upon Elder in February, when he also was fined $100 on a liquor charge.

Upon his arraignment in the case arising last week, Elder said that the liquor did not belong to him. A "hold" order in the present case was requested by the solicitor-general's office, so that Elder may be tried upon that charge after he has served the sentence for the former conviction. The lunch room raided last week was one of the three alleged "wide-open" saloons referred to recently by John A. Boykin when asking the county commissioners to restore the practice of permitting arresting officers to share in the proceeds of confiscated liquor cars.

process. It enables the child to make his own choices, to be careful of his choices. You will have to be very careful in the case of choices, to make it a free choice of the child that he will not be governed by your desires. Too often we think we are giving children choice, when in reality they wouldn't dare make up their own decision, knowing our desires. That isn't a fair choice. He ought to be free to choose his own talents, for instance. He generally knows what he likes and if he prefers tinkering over an old automobile to reading history, that is his choice and talent. Freedom also involves privacy.

Give him privacy for his soul. If you keep close to him, if he trusts you and you have his confidence, if you respect his ideas and thoughts and privacy, he will open the door to you and you will have your golden opportunity to guide him and comfort him in his emotional crises.

"Sixth we find love and trust, sympathetic understanding going out to the child. This love and trust we must give him courage, will free him from the curse of jealousy, from the feeling of inferiority that shrivels and shrinks his personality. It will counteract his timidity, it will give him a firm sense of belonging that is a significant factor in his life."

"The work of this Child Welfare group is the most distinguished in the field in this city; it is giving to the child (and I gladly sight the children's charter framed upon your walls) what the children's charter demands—'Home, and that love and security which a home provides.'"

"Seventh, I would place the companionship provided by such a home, such a group of children. Children are people—some day they are going to be far more than our children—they deserve politeness, respect, rights to their personal privileges, so long as they do not interfere with society. We must take the long view, thinking in terms of the future, what methods to pursue in the course of the child's future development."

We must also assume an experimental attitude, trial and error, as it were. We must not be afraid of making mistakes. We will make many, he will know them and appreciate our honesty in admitting them. What will work for one child will not work for another, for instance, we shall have to experiment—even on different days, different methods for the same child may have to be employed. We must maintain a sense of humor, not allow ourselves to become apparently too deeply concerned for the nervous reaction upon the child will destroy all of our conscientious effort in his direction and we may become nagging and full of an unhappy as well as unfortunate effect upon him. Most of all, and all in all—we must give the child a home so that we may,

Start on New School Is Ordered by Board

Atlanta's board of education Monday afternoon ordered immediate start on reconstruction of the Sylvan Hills school, destroyed by fire several months ago.

A fund of $32,000 in cash will be available for the work, and federal authorities have agreed to furnish $5,000 worth of labor. Some of the material reclaimed in the wrecking of the old Thompson Junior High school also will be utilized.

The new building will be of fireproof construction to replace the frame structure which was a total loss. Ernest Brewer, tenth ward school commissioner, obtained a board vote commending the Sylvan Hills and Capitol View patrons for their co-operation during the emergency. Double sessions were held at the latter institution.

Ground will be broken on the new building at 9 o'clock this morning and an official board committee, headed by Brewer, will be present.

Cartersville Jurist Becomes Qualified Candidate Against Governor Talmadge.

Judge Claude C. Pittman, of Cartersville, became a duly qualified candidate against Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday when the sheriffs and deputies of the six counties in his Cherokee judicial circuit paid his $250 entrance fee to Miss Eleanor Orr, secretary of the state democratic executive committee.

The fee was paid shortly after Hill C. Tuggle, of Stone Mountain, formally entered the race for member of the state prison commission in opposition to Virvan L. Stanley. Mr. Tuggle opposed G. A. Jones, also a mem-

Only five more days remain for qualifying as the entries close May 5.

Chamber Survey Discloses Widespread NRA Opposition

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will tell its convention opening tomorrow that a majority of business men responding to a questionnaire said NRA had been detrimental to them along some lines.

This disclosure was made tonight in a summary of information from organization members in more than 100 cities, which was tabulated as the result of two surveys in January and March.

The summary also reported that in centers with much industrial development there had been a marked reduction in unemployment since January 1, 1933, "running up to 40 and 50 per cent in a number of cities and even higher in a few."

"To the question of whether or not there were any special detriments traceable to NRA, there was a general response," the summary said.

"A minority of the responses were to the effect that there were no special detriments observed. A large majority reported detriments, however."

"There was a large group of complaints about unequal consideration for employers and employees, with so much favor to the latter as to cause disturbances, the effect of which upon recovery locally was feared."

"There was almost an equally large number of complaints based on an increase in costs without ability to get a corresponding increase in prices, with varying degrees of appreciation."

House Flies' Soaring Basis of Fund Plea

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—(AP)—Because estimates were wrong on how high an ordinary house fly would soar, an appropriation of $29,500 has been asked of the board of supervisors.

Declaring the money was needed to screen 1,500 windows in the county's new $12,000,000 hospital, George W. Olson, assistant hospital superintendent, said flies were coming through the windows and carrying disease germs from one ward to another.

It had been estimated flies would not fly above the sixth floor of the institution and windows in the higher floors were left unscrubbed. The pests were reported coming through windows on the sixteenth floor today.

hension expressed by reason of this condition.

"There were several expressions to the effect that there was local detriment because of the uncertainty with respect to future national action relating to labor, as well as other matters under consideration."

"There was some testimony about the troubles of restaurants and other small enterprises in trying to pay the minimum wages that had been fixed."

To the question whether there was sales resistance because of increased prices, the summary stated that "many cities reported no sales resistance on account of increased prices. Rather more reported varying degrees of sales resistance."

"All the responses received from such states as Kansas reported sales resistance, in some instances with fear of a buyers' strike locally. In a few instances there were statements that there was a tendency for original sales resistance to disappear."

As to unemployment, the survey said that although large reductions had been made in some cases, the more usual percentage was from 10 to 15 per cent while about 20 per cent of the responses reported "little or no unemployment."

In 1923, at the age of 70, he was named chairman of the state highway commission by Governor Sulzer. He served in this post for 10 years, supervising a program of modern highway development which cost $250,000,000. One of his last public appearances was at the dedication, two years ago, of the $19,000,000 Pulaski skyway, the elevated approach to the Holland tunnel from Newark.

Through all his last years, Scott continued vigorously his researches and writings on the Indian sign languages which he, alone of all white men, had mastered during his years on the plains. In 1930 he was commissioned by the Library of Congress to compile a record for all time of this curious mode of expression.

MARTHA SKELTON OPENS LADIES' SHOP

A new ladies' shop was announced Monday by Miss Martha Skelton. It is located at 490 Peachtree street, and features hats, dresses, sports wear and hosiery.

The shop is beautifully decorated and equipped and one of the most modern in its appointments in Atlanta.

Miss Skelton was formerly with the Chamberlain-Johnson-DuRose Company, where she became widely known among the women shoppers of Atlanta.

Her location is on the ground floor of the new Doctors' building at Peachtree and Pine streets.

at $200,000. Published reports here indicated Mead had trimmed Wunderlich in a swindle over promises of government contracts, and that Wunderlich had borrowed money from Bremer not long before the kidnaping.

Little Recovered.

Of the $53,000 McLaughlin admitted handling for the Bremer kidnapers, $24,000 was turned over to Delaney, he told the investigators. Part of this, they said, was found on Delaney when he was seized; $85 of ransom bills—all were in $5 and $10 denominations—were in the $300 in young McLaughlin's possession when five federal agents whisked him off the floor of the Chicago Board of Trade Saturday; and $2,085 were in Vidler's pockets.

All told, the government has swept up $3,400 of the $200,000 ransom. Most of McLaughlin's pot, it appears, had already been poured out—changed at banks and shops into unmarked currency, expended, or passed on through the underworld channels. Some was put into bank accounts, or deposit boxes and is being traced.

Exactly how much McLaughlin told in his confession, Purvis and Harold Nathan, of the bureau of investigation at Washington, would not reveal. Nathan arrived here Saturday to join Purvis in finishing off the Bremer kidnap plotters.

"John J. McLaughlin has admitted handling $53,000 of the Bremer kidnap money," Purvis stated. The balance of his interview with newspapermen was devoted to a running account of the head when pertinent questions were put.

DILLINGER DESPERADOES ESCAPE IN GUN BATTLE CHICAGO, April 30.—(AP)—Dillinger desperadoes evaded capture today in a running battle, but federal agents said that one source of machine gun supply had been closed to the gangsters with the arrest of a Texas gunshop operator, who confessed to dealings with Dillinger henchmen.

The encounter took place on the western outskirts of Chicago and ended with three policemen being sent running up a highway in a suburban Bellwood, after one had been slugged over the head with a machine gun and the other two disarmed.

The policemen had pursued four men in a speeding car. Catching up to their quarry, the officers were overpowered. They identified one of the gunmen as George (Baby Face) Nelson, ace killer for John Dillinger. The other three were vaguely identified as John Hamilton, Homer Van Meter and Harry Fox.

Texan Arraigned.

Unshaven and with hair disheveled, H. S. Lehman, San Antonio gunsmith, was arraigned in the Texas city on a charge of receiving, concealing and retaining a government pistol. The department of justice disclosed that Lehman had made a written statement admitting that he sold five machine guns and other deadly weapons to a Jimmy Williams for delivery to the Dillinger gangsters at St. Paul.

Williams was known to have been a companion of Tommy Carroll, who is accused of having slain a San Antonio detective last December. Carroll was thought to have been one of the Dillinger gunmen who shot their way out of a police trap at Little Bohemia, Wis., a week ago Sunday night.

Death Rumor Scouted.

Rumors that Dillinger was dead as a result of wounds suffered in the escape from Little Bohemia received official notice when Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago office of the bureau of investigation, announced that federal agents had been unable to verify reports. Tom McGregor, sheriff of Vilas county, where the gun battle took two lives, termed the rumor "all poppycock."

The search for Dillinger, meanwhile, was being pushed by federal

COURT REFUSES TO RULE ON BANK JUDGMENT

The supreme court refused Monday to rule on a judge's $27,470 awarded the receiver of the First National Bank of Arcadia, Fla., against Parker Brothers.

In October, 1925, certain land in Highlands county, Florida, was mortgaged by J. O. Maner to secure Parker Brothers on two promissory notes totaling $27,000. Parker Brothers assigned the mortgage to the First National Bank of Arcadia. The mortgage was foreclosed in 1927 and the land sold for $6,000, a deficiency judgment of $27,470 being awarded against Parker Brothers.

SUPREME COURT DECLINES TO REVIEW DAMAGE SUIT

C. W. Upton, a police officer at High Point, N. C., was denied a review by the supreme court Monday in a $100,000 damage suit against J. Frank Harrison.

Upton asserted Harrison while traveling as the Greenboro Coca-Cola Bottling Company had sold him a bottle of Coca-Cola which contained glass and which seriously injured him. The suit began in October, 1932, in the state district court for middle North Carolina, which dismissed it. The fourth district court of appeals affirmed its action.

Upton contended he had not been granted a fair trial, and asserted there had been tampering of witnesses.

HIGH COURT TO RULE ON FLORIDA TAX ACT

The supreme court consented Monday to rule on the decision of the federal district court for northern Florida prohibiting J. M. Lee, comptroller of the state, from enforcing the Florida documentary stamp tax act against certain stock brokers operating in that state. The case was set for argument on May 9.

John P. Bickell and other stock brokers, some of them members of the New York Stock Exchange and other stock exchanges operated solely outside Florida, but maintaining branch offices in the state for the purchase and sale of stock and bonds, challenged the validity of the documentary stamp act, contending it constituted a direct burden on interstate commerce, and would deprive them of property in violation of their constitutional rights.

A three-judge federal court enjoined the state comptroller from enforcing the act.

COURT DENIES REVIEW IN MURDER CONNECTION

Parker H. Lee, convicted of the second-degree murder of Enola Gay Lee in February, 1927, and sentenced to 25 years imprisonment, was denied a review by the supreme court today of his contention that the sentence should be served in the District of Columbia reformatory at Lorton, Va.

The federal district court for northern Georgia refused to direct his transfer from the Atlanta penitentiary where Lee is now serving the sentence.

Investigators at St. Paul, in the northern woods and in other localities.

A squad of heavily armed federal agents, sent by Purvis to the vicinity of Fort Wayne, Ind., on reports that Dillinger and some of his men were there, returned empty-handed.

Nelson, whose identification as the slayer of a federal agent in the Little Bohemia raid, has caused police to want him almost as badly as his chief, was reported "seen" at Marshfield, Wis., and in northern Minnesota, as well as by the humbled Chicago police.

D. M. BYRD DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Atlanta Lawyer Was General Counsel for Retail Credit Co. Here.

Daniel Madison Byrd, 50, general counsel for the Retail Credit Company, of 837 Clifton road, N. E., died unexpectedly at his residence Monday night of what doctors diagnosed as heart trouble. He had apparently been in good health and had returned only a few days ago from a fishing trip.

Mr. Byrd was born in Lawrenceville, Ga., the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Byrd, Gwinnett county pioneers. He was the nephew of Major W. E. Simmons, for many years the publisher of the Lawrenceville News, one of the best known weekly newspapers in the state.

As a young man Mr. Byrd entered the University of Georgia and graduated with a degree in law. He returned to Lawrenceville to practice with Major Simmons and became editor of the Lawrenceville News, where he served with distinction for several years. Eight years ago he accepted the position as general counsel for the Retail Credit Company, of Atlanta, and devoted all his time to the organization.

Before the old state game and fish board was abolished several years ago, Mr. Byrd was a member. He was also a member of the staff of Governor Eugene Talmadge and had been on the staff of former Governor L. G. Hardman. He was a member of the famous

Child Health Program Draws State Leaders

Health officials of the state, county and city will join today with members of the Georgia League of Women Voters in a special child health program at Bass Junior High school on Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, president of the Georgia League of Women Voters, will have charge of the program which will begin at 3 o'clock.

Physicians and nurses associated with the various health organizations within the city will assist with the program. Mothers of children of four years of age and under are particularly urged to attend the ceremony.

Dr. Hines Roberts, Dr. J. P. Bowdoin and Dr. J. P. Kennedy will be the chief speakers. Music will be provided by the Fulton High school band.

Work Will Start Soon On Tri-States Highway

Chairman W. Eugene Wilburn, of the state highway board, said Monday that rights of way had been acquired and that a contract would be let the first week in June for the paving of the Georgia section of the Tri-States road, which runs across the northeastern section of Rabun county.

A survey of the road, which will be paved with funds provided by the highway department and the United States forestry service, already has been finished. The paving will cost between $80,000 and $85,000.

The Tri-States road connects important sections of North and South Carolina.

Mr. Wilburn had no comment to make Monday on the recapitulation of the federal bureau of public roads, which showed that Georgia is behind in its federal road program, other than to call attention to the fact that the state was more than six months behind other states in starting on its program and is now almost caught up with them.

Early urged to attend the ceremony.

MR. PUBLIC... and BROTHERS PARTNERS

Bank Customers... ARE PARTNERS

Do you ever consider the idea that you, as a bank depositor, are a partner with all the other customers of the bank? It is you and nearly 120,000 others who make the CITIZENS & SOUTHERN possible, through the money which you deposit.

Partners are expected to work together and for one another. If a man seeks to borrow money, he should keep in mind that the money he is seeking belongs to his partners. In borrowing the money he must realize that his partners expect him to pay it back—that they expect him to protect their interests by giving proper security or proper assurance that the money will be repaid.

The bank officer really serves as an arbitrator, acting for the interests of the partners whose money is in question. If he says "Yes—you can borrow," the partners hold him responsible. If he says "No"—he is acting for them, and not for himself.

The dividends, which the customer-partners receive, come through interest on savings, service on commercial accounts, safe deposit for their money, and a channel through which they can conduct business and personal relation with the world.

Yes—I think it is correct to say that bank customers are partners.

Pitches Club Out of Jam and Then Aids in Rally.

PITTSBURGH, April 30.—(AP)—Guy Bush pitched himself out of a close jam in the ninth inning and joined in a 12th-inning rally with a squeeze play that helped the Chicago Cubs defeat Pittsburgh, 8 to 6, today.

Bush had relieved Southpaw Roy Johnson, who had been hit freely. He started the ninth with a one-run lead but Lindstrom and Vaughan singled quickly and Culyer's fumble placed the Pirates' shortstop on second.

Gus Suhr, who had made two triples driving in three runs and scoring four himself, was purposely passed, filling the bases, with none out. Lavagetto forced Lindstrom at the plate, but Culyer's single sent Vaughan home with the tying score, leaving the sacks still loaded.

Grace then fouled out and Traynor, the league's leading hitter, skied out, ending the rally.

Culyer's single, a sacrifice, a fumble by Vaughan of Jurgens' grounder and Hartnett's single scored one run in the 12th for Chicago. Bush sent another home with his hit.

Hartnett made his first homer of the season on his third in two days to give the Cubs two runs in the sixth. Billy Herman hit another four-bagger in the seventh.

ODDS ROCKED AS SGT. BYRNE GOES DISTANCE

Derby Candidate Thrills Railbirds With Time of 1:59 2-5.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—(UP)—Railbirds were given a thrill today when John Simonetti's Sergeant Byrne, promising candidate for the Kentucky Derby, breeched through the distance in 1:59 2-5. He covered a mile and an eighth in 1:59 2-5 at Churchill Downs.

This proof that Sergeant Byrne is in peak form probably would put down the odds against his chances to win the Derby Saturday. A shortening of at least from the current 15 to 1 to 10 to 1 is expected.

BEAT "WONDER HORSE."

Sergeant Byrne is the conqueror of the "Wonder Horse," a colt named Winooka, in the International sweepstakes and also winner of the Pausonok handicap in his first appearance as a 3-year-old.

Bender First, John Bender's chestnut colt, went the full mile and a quarter Derby distance in 2:10 4-5, finishing under a drive. His performance and Sergeant Byrne's were the best workouts of the day at the Downs. In addition, Darle ran three-eighths of a mile in :37 and Quindimover, the same distance in :35. The track was fast.

Tomorrow an even dozen candidates will strut their stuff in a one-mile race here for 3-year-olds, the sixth race on the program. Six thoroughbred is expected to win. The field of 14 includes these Derbyites: Dan Sabath, Prince Pompos, Quindimover, Peace Chance, Blue Agate, Thomastown, Ridgemoor, Vitamin B, Likewise, Fogarty and Nava Cadet.

TWO AT PIMILCO.

Two candidates worked out today at Pimlico. Mrs. J. H. Whitney's imported colt, the imported II, did a handy five-furlong mile in 1:02 2-5, and C. V. Whitney's Roustabout closed out a six-furlong trial in 1:17. O. F. Woodward's Collier worked a handy mile in 1:01 at Pimlico.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalade, winner of the Chesapeake on Saturday, was the most widely discussed entry here today. The abrupt drop in odds from 7 to 1 to 3 to 1 failed to halt the flood of western money on this brown son of Lauce-gay-Hastly.

THE LIGHT By Frank Rie

THE COLLEGE CAULIFLOWER FLOP.

Why is it the college athlete or the college boxer so rarely makes any headway in the pugilistic swirl? The ex-collegians swarm all over baseball, major league and minor. There are more than a hundred now gathering kale and glory in the two majors. They make up pro football and they play a big part in wrestling.

But they get nowhere in the fight game, where today Steve Hamas, of Penn State, is the only outstanding entry and the Nittany Lion is some distance away from the main cage in the leather coat. Four years ago, Gene Tunney offered the opinion that, within a fairly short time, the college boxer would dominate the game—recalling at the time how many colleges and universities were going in for boxing.

I asked Gene yesterday just what had happened to his prediction. "The college-trained candidate," he said, "still should have the better chance to get ahead in boxing. But, as I see it, there have been two main drawbacks. One is the general lack of proper instruction. The other is the fact that college boxers rarely get the chance to train or work with professional fighters."

The Difference.

"In golf, tennis, baseball and other sports, the amateurs play with and against professionals. This is one of the best ways to improve in any game—to study the actions and the methods of the stars, to play with and against them at every chance. Bobby Jones was playing with and against crack golf professionals when he was 12 years old.

"Boxing is not only a great sport, but it is one of the hardest of all to master. It requires time, thought and skill to play good football, should be qualified to build up the correct fundamentals that are necessary.

"Certainly, a college athlete, weighing from 150 to 200 pounds, good enough to play good football, should have a big jump on the average heavyweight after four years of college instruction. But, at this time, he is only starting the long, uphill road. The chances are he has faced little competition and has seen less of high-class professional boxing. And few seem to like the game well enough to put in another four years of hard knocks, hard training and slow climbing to get the one big shot.

They get knocked out, become discouraged and quit the game. It is a remarkable turn that no college-trained boxer ever won an important title.

Captain Francis Quimet, smiling indulgently at the exuberance of his youngsters, took things easy and was content with an initial 75. Max Marston, the third veteran of the squad, scored 70 and George T. Dunlap Jr., the amateur champion, after spending his morning hunting some lost baggage, carded an 80.

Week

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—(UP)—Jockey Don Meade, contract rider for Colonel E. R. Bradley, was suspended for five days by the Churchill Downs stewards today for rough riding on Leclaire, which finished third in the first race.

Meade drew a 30-day suspension when he and Jockey Herb Fisher were found guilty of rough riding in last year's Kentucky Derby, won by Meade on Broker's Tip. Fisher, on Head Play, which finished second, also was suspended.

When he rode in last year's Derby, Meade was under suspension at Churchill Downs. Suspension does not interfere with a contract rider for state or national races, so Meade probably will be on Bradley's Bazaar in next Saturday's Derby.

SMITHIES PLAY PURPLES TODAY AT HENRY GRADY

Big Six Championship Hangs in Balance as Foes Meet.

By Roy White.

Tech High and Boys' High will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the Henry Grady field in the feature of the semi-final round on the annual Big Six baseball schedule. The championship of the Big Six hangs in the balance, for neither team has been defeated in league competition.

Both teams will send their full strength into the battle, with the pitching departments the main dependence of both.

Both teams have young Jim Hagley and Gene Crockett, two excellent young hurlers who have won praise and prominence on the sand lots before donning high school uniforms.

Tech High has Pete Morris and Johnny Maher, two right-handers who have carried the Smithies to victory in every contest thus far. Morris gave up one hit and Maher pitched a seven-inning no-hit game in a double-header last Friday against Riverside.

The pitchers are backed by a capable infield and outfield and a group of youngsters who have hit well in the pinches in previous games.

OTHER GAMES.

Other games in the Big Six today are G. M. A. and Riverside at Gainesville and Monroe Aggies at Columbus. While the Big Six teams are setting up very important matters pertaining to the standings, members of the North Georgia Interscholastic conference will swing into action in the third round of the second half of the split season pennant race.

Deatur High won the first half with seven wins and no losses, and is favored to repeat in the second half. Deatur plays Russell at Deatur this afternoon.

In the other games of the N. G. C. F. Fulton, champions last year, plays at Marietta. Marietta plays North Georgia at Buckhead and Commercial plays Druid Hills on the latter's diamond.

Plans are being made for the annual spring horse show to be presented here May 24, 25 and 26 by the Atlanta Horse Show Association, assisted by the Young Matrons' Circle of Tallulah Falls school. Members of the circle will sell tickets for the show and will be in charge of the ticket sale at the entrance gates as well as acting as ushers for the three-day show. As an innovation this year only one row of boxes will be arranged around the ring and the boxes will be covered as a precaution against both rain and sun.

Mrs. Eugene Harrington is chairman of the Tallulah circle's participation in the horse show and will be assisted by an excellent corps of committee chairmen in charge of the various activities.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

He heard her coming and hurried to meet her.

"Barbara."

"How late you are tonight."

"Yes."

"Bad time?"

"Delicious again."

"You aren't telling me the truth."

"You never do."

"What's the use?"

"What torture to wait here helplessly and know what you're going through!"

She took his head in her hands and gazed deep into his eyes.

"And you, dear?"

"I? I don't count. But you—have you got the strength, the courage?"

"I have strength," she said quietly. Her hands still held his, her eyes still searched his face.

"O, my dear," she cried suddenly, "what I am making you suffer! And it's all wrong, wrong and inhuman."

She saw the fear in his eyes, drew her arms about his neck and raised her lips. He trembled at the touch, crushing her body into his arms, blotting out against him to still the despair in his heart, thinking:

"Sooner or later, he'll beat me—he'll wear her down sooner or later—beat me!"

When she rose, her face was set and stern. She went stiffly up the stairs and into her room, where the nurse was doing in the armchair. She touched her on the shoulder.

"Go now. Get some sleep. I'll watch."

The nurse started up. A creaking sound came from the bed in the other room.

The nurse put her finger to her lips.

"Terribly excited, Miss Barbara. I had to give him an opiate. If he gets worse call me."

"He won't get worse."

She waited and then went into her father's bedroom. His eyes were open. At the sight of her he shrank back and then struggled up.

"You! Why do you come?" he cried hoarsely. "Aren't you satisfied?"

"Listen, father," she put out her hand to halt the torrent of invective that was rising to his lips. "You've beaten me. I shall never marry Gregory without your consent. I give you my word."

A year passed. They were back at Lynwood after a winter in the healing sunshine of Bermuda. Martin Brawne was now able to walk with a cane. His speech, though slow, had regained a quality of distinction. His mind remained clear and active. Though any return to his office was out of the question, he was able to take up again the direction of his firm. Each Friday Allen Disbrough arrived for a weekly consultation. For Barbara each day had resolved itself into an unvarying routine.

Each morning she rose, dressed, and going into her father's room, closed the windows and pulled the shades.

"Famously. No air like Oxbidge. And you?"

"O, always the same with me."

She rang for Thomas to shave and dress him and went downstairs and out for a brief half hour's stroll before breakfast.

Back at the foot of the stairs, while her father meticulously descended from step to step, she waited to offer him arm. Breakfast over, they went into the library, where she opened his correspondence and passed over each letter for his inspection. For the rest of the morning he dictated his replies and the notes on the business of the week he wished to discuss with Disbrough. Then she accompanied him for the short, lagging walk to the arbor, where she read to him from legal briefs, which he attempted to explain and which to please him she went through the usual simulation of understanding.

After lunch in the middle of the afternoon they drove out in the landau through leafy country roads, over the Berkshire hills, with vistas of well groomed valley. Sometimes, if the morning's work had been arduous, he fell asleep. Dinner remained a formal affair. Nothing would alter his habits. Half a dozen of the old Oxford bridgites were privileged to the table. Mr. and Mrs. Chiswick, Miss Almitie, the Van Valzans. He insisted on her appearing at his best, knew every dress in her wardrobe and flattered her with the manner of an old courtier. After dinner there was the party of whist, with Thomas standing behind her to sort the cards and do the shuffling and dealing. Every day the same.

The return to Oxbidge had been for her a strong re-education. When she had come again to Lynwood and felt its strong austerity close over her she accepted it as something predestined. There was no escape. Her day was her father's, would be, so long as he lived.

The memory of Gregory Rance still tortured her acutely. There were moments when she seemed to see him in the woods and followed the river path to the bridge, when she was torn by religious emotions and the impulse to flight whither to her and left her shrinking before the cruelty of her memories.

Isolated in the humdrum of her life, she drew back on her resources. She wore herself out in a futile striving to put him out of her mind. Her days were obsessed and her nights were haunted by the longing to be back in his arms. Supposing in a year or two her father should die and leave her free—too late?

It had been difficult to convince Gregory. He had protested against finalities, but she had had the courage, in loyalty to him, not to reopen the issue. A dozen times she had tentatively sounded her father only to recoil frightened before the paroxysms of rage into which he lashed himself. To him Rance was an obsession, a passion, a figure of evil, embodying all that was destructive and contaminating—unthinkable! Rance's letters continued to arrive, pleading, revolted, impassioned. She read them, put them away and did not reply. In the end, out of compassion for her, he ceased to write.

She strove now for a difficult philosophy. Who had said she should be done proudly. She grew thin and listless, but she made no reproaches. She could not feel toward her father that which she felt toward her father. There was no more comradeship. There were deep in her strong sense of justice she could not repress, but outwardly she went through her service, smiling, purposeful, resolved in some measure to compensate for the tragedy she had unwittingly wrought.

Disbrough's coming at the end of the week was a welcome relaxation. He brought with him a touch of the active outer world, with his budget of news and anecdotes, doing little commissions for the aunts. When he was present at the table the conversation ran smoothly, and when a discussion arose he maintained an attitude of a sympathetic moderator, finding something of value in the divergent opinions of the father and daughter, which kept them within the bounds of good humor. His public was beginning to shape itself. He had been elected to the board of trustees of his university and to a high position in the city organization of the republican party. He was counsel for a reform movement in the City Club and already spoken of as a candidate for congress. In the firm, under the direction of Mr. Brawne, he had taken charge of the most important cases. So far there had been no change in the set impersonal attitude he had maintained toward Barbara. His first suspicions vanished before the friendly correctness of his manner. Once or twice she had felt a little gratitude in his evident understanding of ideas which her father resented.

II.—Dropping Into the Sea.

To sit in the basket of a balloon and eat lunch after a drop from the sky into the "arms" of a tree, is a strange thing to do; but it was done by three Englishmen who lived a century and a half ago.

Gazing below, the young man was able to see the coast of the North sea! If he did not go down at once, he would be carried out over the water, probably to die when the balloon lost its power. He pulled at a cord to open the valve, but alas! It would not open! When gas had been put into the bag, a mistake had been made and the valve had been covered by a piece of silk cloth.

Past the coast line and out above the sea traveled the balloon and Major Money! Little by little, gas leaked from the bag, and not quite two hours after the beginning of the flight, its upward lift was not strong enough to hold the weight of the man in the bowl-like basket. Down he dropped, until he found himself splashing in the water.

The remaining gas held the bag in the air, and the airman clung to the ropes. With fine courage, he held on for hours—in the hope that help would come. The bag sank low over the water, was lashed by the waves, and lost more and more of its gas. The ropes were cutting the man's hands, but he held on.

At last, just half an hour before midnight, a sailing vessel, the "Argus," came to the rescue. Early next morning, Money was taken ashore, weak but happy; and as he landed was met by a cheering throng.

Miss Eva Hancock Appointed Girl Scout Executive Secretary

Mrs. J. C. Malone, president of Atlanta Camp Fire Girls' organization, announces that Miss Eva Hancock has been appointed executive secretary of the local council. Since last June she has been serving in the capacity of assistant, but because of her splendid qualifications, the board of directors asked her to assume executive duties. Miss Hancock is a graduate of the University of Utah, receiving her A. B. degree in 1927. She was active in student activities, serving as vice president of the student body, senior year, member of the Mortar Board and the Pi Beta Phi National sorority. Upon graduation she taught in a Salt Lake City high school, being instructor of French and English. She was active in organizing clubs for students, and organized several Girl Reserve groups in her community.

While teaching she attended a summer Camp Fire training course, conducted by Miss Ruby Lattimore, member of the national staff, who recently visited Atlanta, and afterward decided to make Camp Fire her profession. She was appointed executive secretary of the Rio Hondo council, in Huntington, Park, Cal., where she served for three years and was awarded the national executive honor, being one of six executives in the United States to receive this recognition. ## Rescuing the Opponents

Many players who have a sound knowledge of bridge theory seem to lose their sense of proportion when they actually sit down at the table.
